

Description

A travertine stone slab with an honorary inscription, found in the area around the church San Pancrazio. It is a dedication with the appropriate decree of the decurions (members of the municipal council) to Caius Cesius Apro. The inscription, which can be dated to the Flavian era, documents Caius Cesius Apro’s brilliant career, which covered institutional positions in Ponto and in Bithynia and in the province of Sardinia.
