

Description

Graffiti preserved inside the church of Calatrava La Vieja (Carrión de Calatrava, Spain). Among other drawings we can see several five-pointed stars. Since the Middle Ages it was used as a protective amulet. In the lower part it is possible to clearly see a bow shooting an arrow and to its right several fortifications crowned with triangular battlements. Calatrava La Vieja preserves one of the most important medieval graffiti groups in Castilla-La Mancha region.

3D model made in Reality Capture using 53 images. Additional processing completed in Geomagic Wrap, Zbrush, Substance Designer, and Blender.
